This book is dedicated to the family, immediate and extended, I love so much, for their endless support, guidance, (and tolerance). To Luisa, wife and partner, our children, Isaac, Noah and Alfredo, and to the memories of my father, Dr. Irving Dlugacz, and my uncle, Professor Joseph Bensman, who taught me how to think critically from an early age. I also want to thank the many colleagues, teachers and clients, from whom I’ve learned so much about how to bring humanity to intellectual pursuits, especially, Professor Andrew Hacker, Professor Michael Perlin, Dr. Lambert King, and the Honorable Jack B. Weinstein.

And, in the words of the poet, for those …

Tolling for the rebel, tolling for the rake
Tolling for the luckless, the abandoned an’ forsaked
Tolling for the outcast, burnin’ constantly at stake

Acknowledgments

The authors wish to thank Lisa Ruff, our research assistant, for her truly phenomenal (there is no other word) assistance in every phase of this book. It is an overused cliche, but, truly, we could not have done this without her. We also wish to thank Katrice Ayarza for her flawless administrative support. Finally, we wish to thank Deans Richard Matasar and Stephen Ellmann for their encouragement and on-going support.
About the Authors

Michael L. Perlin is Professor of Law at New York Law School (NYLS), director of NYLS’s Online Mental Disability Law Program, and director of NYLS’s International Mental Disability Law Reform Project in its Justice Action Center. He is also an Adjunct Professor at NYU Medical Center and the University of Rochester Medical Center. Formerly the Director of the Division of Mental Health Advocacy in the NJ Department of the Public Advocate, and Deputy Public Defender in charge of the Mercer County (Trenton) NJ Office of the Public Defender, he now serves on the Board of Advisors of Mental Disability Rights International, and on the Board of Directors of the International Academy of Law and Mental Health. He has also recently served as a member of the Board of Advisors of the Correctional Association of New York’s Mental Health Services project.

Henry A. Dlugacz is an adjunct professor at New York Law School, at St. John’s University School of Law, and an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry and behavioral Sciences at New York Medical College. He is an attorney, psychiatric social worker and consultant in private practice in New York City, specializing in mental disability issues. His work includes the monitoring of complex, federal class action litigations related to forensic psychiatric hospitals and correctional mental health. Before entering private practice exclusively, Prof. Dlugacz served as Director of Mental Health for the St. Vincent’s Hospital Correctional Health Program, Assistant Program Director for the St. Vincent’s Hospital Correctional Health Program, an expert consultant and mediator for the Special Master appointed by the Chief Judge of the District of New Mexico in a multi-party class action litigation. As an attorney and psychiatric social worker, he has performed similar court-appointed duties in cases in numerous jurisdictions around the country and lectured on this topic in national and international forums.
