Acknowledgments

We wish to thank Ms. Joan Paluzzi for assistance with the text of Chapter 2 on Latin American ideas and Ms. Leah Voors for help with the questions supplied in conjunction with each chapter. Both were supported through the Dean's fund in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences at the University of Pittsburgh. Fieldwork among the Duna people of Papua New Guinea was supported partly by the Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, administered by the Department of Religious Studies at the University of Pittsburgh. Ms. Rachel Chapin-Paolone assisted with the typing of the manuscript. Parts of the manuscript were written while we were based at the Centre for Pacific Studies in the School of Anthropology and Archaeology, James Cook University, Townsville, Australia in mid-1998. The copy-edited text was finally checked while we were Visiting Senior Fellows at the International Institute for Asian Studies, Leiden. We thank all of these institutions for their support, as well as a number of individual colleagues in the Medical Anthropology Discussion Group at the University of Pittsburgh for their interest in our project. Kaja Finkler also gave initial encouragement to proceed with the book. For all shortcomings we remain responsible.
